

European Journal of Development Research

The European Journal of Development Research (EJDR) is a multi-disciplinary journal that seeks to broaden our understanding of the processes that advance or impede human development, whether from a political, economic, sociological or anthropological perspective. It is published five times a year by Palgrave/McMillan. The EJDR is generously sponsored by the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies Geneva.

2009 Highlights

In 2009 EJDR published more than 50 cutting-edge articles on a variety of topics in development research. These included articles from a special issue on China in Africa, guest edited by Olusanya Ajakaiye, African Economic Research Consortium, Nairobi, Kenya and Raphael Kaplinsky, Open University, Milton Keynes, UK. These articles will be available for free online for a limited period.

Click here for a list of ten of the most downloaded articles in 2009.

Latest articles (Vol 22/3, 2010)

Click here or subscribe to the newsfeed.

Options for EJDR subscription

Individual subscription

- With EADI individual membership \(65 \) - only printed
- Without EADI membership

Institutional subscription

- With EADI institutional membership \(250/500/750 depending on turnover\) - only printed
- Without EADI membership

Editorial Team:

Rajneesh Narula (Chief Editor), Andrew Mold, Claire Mainguy, Dennis Rodgers

Journal Administrator:

Ms. Barbara Coghlan

The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies

Tel: 41-229084438

E-mail: ejdr-editor\(AT\)graduateinstitute.chgraduateinstitute.ch)

Guidelines for submission

- Manuscript submission tool
- EJDR special issue submission procedures
- Guidelines for authors

Issues list

Click here