How to contribute

Disseminating research via EADI

eadi.org

EADI - the European Association of Development Research and Training Institutes is a Europe-wide network of institutes, researchers and students of various disciplines in the field of Development Studies. It organizes activities and offers facilities for the international exchange of knowledge and experience in the professional field. EADI's most prominent activity is a General Conference devoted to a topical issue every three years.

Guide for EADI members

We promote your publications, calls, courses, vacancies and news via our online information services.

We also invite you to showcase your research and contributions to the debate on our blog and in our virtual dialogue series.

EADI Newsletter and news pages on EADI.org

The EADI website and the newsletter are efficient tools for both EADI members and the general public to stay informed about the development research community. They feature news from members and partners and from EADI working groups and projects. We publish the following categories of information:

- General news on Development Studies and on activities in our network
- Calls for papers and for research projects
- Vacancies
- News from premium members of EADI

EADI Member Publications section

Our information channels feature publications by members from different perspectives. Our emphasis is on publications which are freely available.

In the Member Publications section of our website we present a range of publications, opinion pieces and policy briefs from our members. It allows search combinations by topics, regions and publication types.

A selection of the publications is included in our fortnightly newsletter.

EADI Blog

developmentresearch.eu

The EADI Blog is set up as a discussion platform for the international development research community. We invite you to share your opinion, thoughts and insights on everything that might be of interest to the broader community – and of course also on articles that appear on our blog.
