

Call for nominations: EADI / IAC Council members

EADI, as the professional European organisation of institutes and professionals in the field of Development, wishes to influence proactively the process of accreditation and quality assurance of teaching programmes in Global Development Studies. To this end it has developed a quality assurance (QA) and accreditation system that take the specific nature of Global Development Studies into account. The International Accreditation Council for Global Development Studies and Research (IAC/EADI) is the independent organ of EADI in charge of the system.

For more information visit: Accreditation \(eadi.org\)

The IAC Council is composed of renowned academics and practitioners. We are inviting nominations for new council members, serving for a period of four years. Candidates should preferably have experience with teaching accreditation and peer reviews. Potential members of the Accreditation Council can be nominated by members of EADI, or nominate themselves, if they are a member.

IAC council members decide on the procedural principles and criteria for accreditation and review the accreditation reports generated by independent review panels. They also develop the system according to international standards.

Please send us your nomination by 31 October 2022, including a brief motivation letter.
