

EADI Global Development Series

Series Editors: I. Baud, P. Goulart, A. Mold

The EADI Global Development series seeks to broaden our understanding of the processes that advance or impede human development, whether from a political, economic, sociological or anthropological perspective. Development Studies (also known as 'International Development Studies') is a multi- and inter-disciplinary field of study. Its aims are to understand the interplay between social, economic, political, technological, ecological, cultural and gendered aspects of societal change at the local, national, regional and global levels. Its interest is in a strong link between theory, policy and practice.

The series invites book manuscripts across all disciplines which address these questions. EADI as an association of over 100 development research institutes and regular conferences reaches the most important institutes and researchers in this field.

Isa Baud is Emeritus Professor of International Development Studies at the University of Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

Pedro Goulart is Assistant Professor at the Center of Administration and Public Policies, Instituto Superior de Ciências Sociais e Políticas, at the University of Lisbon, Portugal.

Andy Mold is the Senior Economic Affairs Officer at the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa.
